Will Wright dreams of playing baseball in the big leagues and is ready to sacrifice everything to make it happen. But in South Carolina during the 1920's, the only path to pro baseball is through the local textile mill team. Against the wishes of his wealthy father, Will leaves his family and privileged life behind to work in the harsh conditions at Newton Mill, earning him criticism from his father for his association with working class "undesirables." But Will learns that he is not so different from the mill-workers.

When famous real-life evangelist Billy Sunday (played by David Burke) comes to town, Will discovers that his sheltered life only masks his real need for repentance and forgiveness. This entertaining evangelistic drama recalls a bygone era while conveying relevant truths for today. 135 minutes
